Jeff lives in a big zoo in New York. Jeff is a giraffe. Jeff has spots on his back. He has a very long neck. His neck is long so he can eat the leaves on tall trees.

Jeff has a best friend. His best friend is a green frog. One day his best friend just hopped into his cage. He talked to Jeff. Jeff said, "I like you."

The frog said, "I like you! Let's be friends." Jeff told him he was happy he came into his cage.

Every day, Jeff would grab a big leaf and put it on the ground for Fred the Frog. Fred never forgot to say, "Thank you."

After eating the bugs on the leaf, Fred would hop out of the cage and visit other animals. He would come back to Jeff's cage. Fred told Jeff all about what the other animals were doing.

One day, Fred said, "Three new babies were born today! Mrs. Bear had two baby cubs and Mrs. Goat had a new kid." Jeff was so happy that Fred was his friend. He would not know about the new babies because he could not leave his cage.

"Fred, thank you for being my best friend!"
